

Dear Admissions Committee,

My name is Jierui Huang. I am writing to express my strong interest in the Master of Economics at Harvard University. Throughout my academic journey, I have developed a profound passion for economics, which has been further ignited by my experiences and aspirations. I am confident that my background, combined with research experience, make me an ideal candidate for admission.

During my undergraduate studies in economics and mathematics at Renmin University of China, I was consistently drawn to the complexities and nuances of economics. Courses such as Econometrics, Game Theory, Monetary Economics not only provided me with a solid foundation but also sparked my curiosity to delve deeper into advanced topics. My dedication to academic excellence is reflected in my 4.0 (top 5%), and my consistent performance in challenging courses has prepared me well for the rigors of graduate study.

My passion for economics is driven by both academic curiosity and hands-on research experience. I spearheaded a project about Digital Currency, where I led a team through comprehensive literature review, analyzing over 50 scholarly articles, questionnaire data analysis, and field research. Our team's efforts culminated in the project's successful approval. To further ground my research in the latest academic discourse, I consistently study top-tier journals such as American Economic Review, Econometrica, Journal of Political Economy, among others. This practice of critically examining cutting-edge research has been instrumental in deepening my academic insight and solidifying my resolve to contribute to this field at the graduate level.

My interest in Harvard University is driven by several factors. Your program's reputation for academic excellence, state-of-the-art research facilities, and a strong alumni network make it an ideal environment for my continued growth. I believe that the Master of Economics at Harvard University will provide me with the resources and support needed to further develop my skills and contribute to meaningful research in economics.

My long-term goal is to become economist. I am committed to making a significant impact in the field of economics through innovative research and practical applications. I am confident that the Master of Economics at Harvard University will be a crucial step in achieving these goals and will provide me with the foundation to pursue a career that aligns with my passions and aspirations.

In conclusion, I am excited about the prospect of joining the Master of Economics at Harvard University and contributing to the vibrant academic community. I am eager to bring my passion, dedication, and unique background to your program and look forward to the opportunity to further discuss my application with you.

Thank you for considering my application.

Sincerely,
Jierui Huang